

#6QuestionsWith Michael Itzkowitz on Negotiated Rulemaking 101

#6QuestionsWith Michael Itzkowitz on Negotiated Rulemaking 101

Tosin Akintola

Former Education Communications Advisor

@ThirdWayEDU

Michael Itzkowitz

Senior Fellow, Higher Education

@mikeitzkowitz

The phrase “negotiated rulemaking” has made its way back into the mainstream media following the Department of Education’s announcement that it will undergo a series of negotiated rulemaking sessions to receive feedback on a variety of higher education regulations – like borrower defense, gainful employment, and other student protections. To better understand the negotiated rulemaking process and what it means for students, we sat down with Michael Itzkowitz, Senior Policy Fellow for the Education Team here at Third Way, for another edition of #6QuestionsWith.

TOPICS

HIGHER EDUCATION 597