

Boosting Retirement Wealth

Anne Kim*Tess Stovall

Today, planning for retirement rests wholly in workers' hands, and nearly two-thirds of workers have saved for retirement. But many are concerned they haven't saved enough and will outlive their retirement assets. A federal match to 401(k) savings would boost the efforts of middle-class families to save for a comfortable retirement. This module lays out the problem, outlines how to respond and provides suggestions to roll out your plan to the public.
