

Why College Completion Matters

Third Way Education

We have a college completion crisis in America, where students have a 50-50 shot of crossing the finish line. The College Completion Fund (CCF) included in the Build Back Better Act could help improve student outcomes. In this video, we highlight the voices of students, college administrators, and higher ed champions, to hear why college completion matters and how an investment like CCF would help support our nation's most underserved students and the institutions that serve them.
